

EXAMPLE OF ANALYSIS

BANGLADESH CODE OF CIVIL PROCEDURE, 1908

5. Application of the Code of Revenue Courts:

(1) Where any Revenue Courts are governed by the provisions of this Code in those matters of procedure upon which any special enactment applicable to them is silent, the Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, declare that any portions of those provisions which are not expressly made applicable by this Code shall not apply to those Courts, or shall only apply to them with such notifications as the Government may prescribe.

RE-WRTING OF SUB-SECTION (1) OF SECTION 5 WITH FINITE VERBS

Where any Revenue Courts are governed by the provisions of this Code in those matters of procedure

Upon which any special enactment is silent,

The Government, by notification in the official Gazette, may declare that any portions of those provisions

Which are not expressly made applicable by this Code

Which shall not apply to those Courts,

Or which shall only apply to them with such notifications

As the Government may prescribe

SENTENCE ANALYSIS OF SUB-SECTION (1) OF SECTION 5

MODIFIERS IN SECTION: Noun, Verb and Prepositional phrases

CLAUSES IN SECTION: There are eight clauses

1. Where any Revenue Courts are governed by the provisions of this Code in those matters of procedure (Subordinate clause)
2. Upon which any special enactment is silent (Subordinate clause)
3. Which is applicable to them (Independent clause)
4. The Government, by notification in the official Gazette, may declare that any portions of those provisions (Independent clause)
5. Which are not expressly made applicable by this Code (Subordinate clause)
6. Which shall not apply to those Courts (Independent clause)
7. Or which shall only apply to them with such notifications (Independent clause)
8. As the Government may prescribe (Subordinate clause)

CLASSIFICATION OF SENTENCE: It is a compound-complex-sentence with four independent clauses and four subordinate clauses.